Clonterdufty.

My dear Patrick,

I RECEIVED your letter four days before it came to hand, and long before I opened it; the contents were near throwing me into hufh-terric fits, to think that you were well, even before I had any accounts from you: Oh, Paddy, you would laugh till you would cry the guts out of you, to fee the lamoncholy ftate of poor Ireland, nor can it be mended unleis Bonofarta and the French come among us—who would make us free before we would know any thing at all about it; for, you fee, all Ireland is of one way of thinking, except thofe who differ from us, and them they call the orange boys—and faith, and very bitter oranges they are, and I'm fure all the world knows that they are not civil ones. Moft of the women in Ireland are United Irifhmen; yes, and the children too, before they are able to fpeak a word, fay, damn the king, in Irifh: All our neighbours living now and has not left the place, are either fhot, hanged or tranfported—in fact there is nothing but bloodfhed and battery all around us, and this all owing to the bloody backs or the red coats as you call them, who commit depredations on man, woman and child—burning and deftroying all that comes after them; and tho' we have not Tarleton, as you had among you in America, we have Luttrell, the traitor, bad luck to him; they call him earl Carampton, devil cramp him, he is a fore fight to them who never faw him: He burned poor Dodd's diftillery at Multifarnum, laft night, and the d—l's get, as he is nothing elfe, took out the children, ordered the fifer to play up "God fave the king," and made them dance to the tune, while their father's houfe was burning and the property deftroying. Paddy, what do you think of this?—Well, they did worfe the night before—they went to Owen Durneen's houfe, at Poolnamuck, took out his three fons, Larry, Bryan and Roger, and you know what foney boys they were, fhot them before their own door, without judge or jury, went in and ufed Caty, in a worfe manner, and a finer girl never ftepped in a brogue—well, they even done worfe than that a few nights before—they burned and deftroyed your own cabin; I tell you how it happened, although I am quite pale in the face with bluthing, nor would I venture to tell you, but that you often told me I was chafte as Helen of Greece, queen Befs, or even the empreis of Ruffia; but as parfon O'Dougherty fays—de mortuis nil nifi bonum, that is, when women are bad, ftone them. Well, this is the way it happened: One evening in comes a big foger, he called himfelf a grenadier, or grand deer, I don't know which, but faith he was near making a buck of you, or as the parfon fays, antlerizeing or cornuting you—juft in the minute of danger, I called on St. Patrick to help me, and my prayers was heard, for before the firft word was out of my mouth, in comes parfon O'Dougherty, and you know he can box other things as well as the pulpit; fo without faying by your leave or any thing elfe, he threw a fift full of fingers at him, and in three fhakes left him fprawling on the ground, like Dennis Gallagher's old fow; we left him for dead, but he took the advantage of the parfon and I, when we were difputing on a religious point, got up and run off to the camp of Killarooiky, brought thoufands with him, and burnt our poor cabin, and the devil a chimney they left ftanding, as they do in your town, fo there is no hopes of the houfe ever coming back again; but I thought worfe of the ufage they gave the poor dear parfon, they ftripped and lynched him, though he would melt the moft tender heart that ever was, with all the fine outlandifh words he made ufe of: I am fuffering, he would cry, pro publico bono, that was, they were cutting him to the bone; other times he'd fay, nemo me impune lafceffis, as my back is bare you may kifs it; again, nil nacum fub fole, Nelly hide me in the cole hole fummum bonum fuc, give me the bone; omnia unitas, I'll take another glafs—but the laft word the dear man fpoke, juft as he got the thirty-nine lafhes, was fic tranfit gloria mundi, that is, we are here to day and gone a Sunday:—He fainted in my arms, and would have died but I had a cordial in my pocket which revived him. I could tell you a thoufand fuch facts as this, but muft defer it for another letter. Let me know, are you made a captain of yet, that I may have myfelf called lady O'Drifcol, then you know I would have the uppermoft hand of the parfon's wife in all public places; and faith the parfon feems to like me on your account, even as well as his own wife; he adviles you to ftay where you are and not to return for if you do he fays, nemo mortalium omnibus horis fapit, that is no wife man would work in a faw pit. The parfon had fome notion of going over to you, but as you fay there is a great Colonel Lynch in your place, he begs to be excufed: for, as he fays, of two evils choofe the leaft—better be lynch'd at home than in a ftrange country. I would write longer, but the parfon and I are going to difpute on a religious point. Adieu, be as virtrous to me as I am to you. Read Joleph Andrews, there is an example of chaftity in a man for you.

I remain your tender chafte and loving wife,

JUDY O'DRISCOLL.

Meffrs. Barber and Southwick,

A Warm panegyrift of governor Jay, with more ardour and confidence, than difcretion, by flatly denying the fact charged on him by Inveftigator, and by a gafconade challenge, has impofed the neceffity of a detection. Silence would now look indeed like guilt and cowardice. Without further comment the public are preiented with a true copy of an inftrument the moft extraordinary of any age or time, and with full proof of its authenticity. The incredulity of Mr. Jay's admirers has induced the depofiting with you for their inipection and for the curiofi, the original itfelf in his own hand. It is as follows:

KNOW all men by thefe prefents, that we do acknowledge ourfelves to be indebted unto John Jay, of the city of New-York, Efq. in the fum of current money of New-York, whereof each pound is equal in value to two and an half Spanifh milled dollars to be paid with lawful intereft for the fame, to the faid John Jay, or to his certain attorney, executors, adminiftrators or afligns, at the expiration of one year from the day of the date hereof, and that in Spanifh milled dollars, at the rate of two and one half for every pound, or the juft and real value thereof in other good filver or gold coin, or money; for as we have received the aforefaid fum from him in good gold and filver coin, or money, at the rate and value aforefaid, fo we are to repay the fame and the intereft thereof at the like rate and value, to him in good gold and filver coin, or money alfo, and not in paper or fictious money, notwithftanding that the fame fhould be made a legal tender by act or acts of the legiflature of this ftate. And to this payment fairly and honeftly to be made and performed, according to the plain and true intent and meaning of thefe prefents, we do bind ourfelves, our heirs, executors and adminiftrators, jointly and feverally, firmly by thefe prefents. Sealed with our feals, dated the day of in the year of our Lord one thoufand feven hundred and eighty four.

Sealed and delivered in the prefence of }

State of New-York ff. JOHN STRANGE, of the county of Weftchefter, maketh oath, that the within bond was furnifhed to him by John Jay, Efq. as agent to the faid John Jay, and with inftructions to make ufe of the fame as a form or precedent, by which to take obligations to him, and that the fame is in the proper hand writing of the faid John Jay.

JOHN STRANGE,

Sworn the 23d day of March, 1698, before me.

JELLIS A. FONDA, Juftice of the peace.

After this, Mr. Federalift, dare you to prate of Mr. Jay's well earned confidence? dare you to lifp your encomiums on his undeviating attention to the difcharge of his moral and religious duties? Dare you to attribute this expofure of his conduct, to a faction, ftriving on the eve of an election to injure and depreciate him in the public opinion? Diveft yourfelf of prejudice, of the rancorous fpirit of party, and you cannot but be convinced, that your conceptions of your paragon of excellencies were extravagant. Do not attempt any longer to vindicate the man who, regardlefs of his duty as a citizen, of thofe moral obligations on which he defcants fo well, has had the effrontery, in the face of the public, to diftruft the legiflature of his native ftate, the man who has had the infolence by fubtle fchemes and devices to attempt to elude and baffle the laws, the man who broods over his good gold and filver coin with all the folicitude of a mifer. It would be infulting the public underftanding, after this inconteftible evidence of Mr. Jay's guilt, to expofe the moral turpitude of the mind which could fuggeft, or the heare which could cherifh fentiments fo mifchevous and immoral. Weak indeed muft be that head, which fraught with many years ftudy of the law, and a long experience, could indulge the abfurd idea that fuch an artifice would infure its object; had he conlulted his friend the comptroler, he could have told him the project would be unavailing. The moralift and politicians of Mr. Jay's fuit, will find themfelves conftrained to invent fome new fyftem of ethics, whereon to juftify him, or the public opinion will be invariably fixed.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

MONDAY, APRIL 2.

Mr. Allen called up the refolution calling for certain papers from the Prefident of the United States; (the conlideration of which was poftponed on Friday till this day) which having been read, Mr. Allen faid, he would agree to the amendments propofed, provided the mover would allow the fame exception to be ufed, that had been propofed on a former occafion, viz. excepting fuch part of the faid papers as any exifting negociation may render improper to be difclofed.

The queftion on the amendment was negatived, without a diviiion.

The queftion then returned upon the refolution, in the fodowing words:

"Refolved, That the Prefident of the United States be requefted to communicate to the houfe, the inftructions to and difpatches from the Envoys Extraordinary of the United States to the French Republic, mentioned in his meffage of the 19th inft."

The queftion was then taken by yeas and nays, as follow:

Meſſrs. Allen and Hanna were appointed a committee to wait upon the Preſident with the ſaid reſolution.

Mr. Kittera reported a bill for authoriſing certain officers to adminiſter oaths, which was committed for to-morrow.

Mr. Sewall, from the committee for, the protection of commerce and the defence of the country, made a report on the memorial of the Chamber of Commerce of New-York, on the ſubject of the inſecure ſtate of the harbour of that port. The report ſtates, that Congreſs had this ſubject under conſideration at the laſt ſeſſion, and provided that any ſtate ſhould be authoriſed to expend any ſuch ſum upon their fortifications as they ſhould deem proper, not exceeding the ſum of which ſuch ſtates was found indebted to the U. States in the ſettlement of the accounts between the State and the United States. This propoſition having been wholly neglected by the ſtate of New-York, and no ceſſion having been made of the ſoil, the committee recommended, after ſtating that it will be proper to include a ſum for purchaſing cannon and ammuuition for the ſaid fortifications, propoſe the following reſolution:

"Reſolved, That a bill be reported to repeal the proviſion of ceſſion in the act providing for the further defence of the ports and harbours of the United States, and to provide in lieu thereof, that the fortifications which ſhall be erected and allowed for by the United States purſuant to that act ſhall become the property of the United States; alſo to provide that any ſtate which ſhall accept of the propoſal made by the ſaid act, and proceed to finiſh any fortification heretofore commenced, and which by the Preſident of the United States ſhall be judged of uſe in the defence of any port or harbour, or in making any additional fortifications, under his direction, ſhall be allowed, in the manner propoſed by the ſaid act as well for all previous expenditures made ſince March 20 1794, as for the expences which ſhall be made purſuant to the ſaid propoſal, not exceeding the ballance in which ſuch ſtate reſpectively has been found indebted to the United States."

The report was committed to the committee of the whole on the ſtate of the union.

Mr. Allen informed the houſe, that the committee appointed to wait upon the Preſident with the reſolution which had been agreed to, had performed that ſervice, and he had informed them that he would take the matter under conſideration, and do what the public ſafety ſhould ſeem to require.

The order of the day was next called for on the bill for organizing and diſciplining the Militia of the United States, and the houſes went into a committee of the whole on this ſubject; when the firſt ſection, which provides for the eſtabliſhment of a Select Corps having been read, a motion was made by Mr. Varnum to ſtrike it out, in order to try the principal of the bill. This motion was advocated by Meſſrs. Varnum Nicholas and W. C. Claiborne; and oppoſed by Meſſrs. J. Williams, Macon, Shepherd, S. Smith, Harper, Brooks and Dayton. No queſtion was taken. The Committee had leave to ſit ogain.

Adjourned.

TUESDAY, APRIL 3.

Mr. Gallatin preſented a petition ſigned by forty of the General Aſſembly of Pennſylvania, praying that, while it is conceived expedient by the conſtituted authorities of the United States not to declare war againſt any nation, the peace of the country may not be hazarded by permitting our citizens, under any pretext to arm merchant veſſels. Mr. G. moved that it be referred to the committee of the whole, on the ſtate of the union; to which Mr. Allen objected, and hoped that as the admiſſion of a petition of this nature, ſigned by men, holding particular offices in a ſtate, and from thence claiming a more than ordinary attention from the houſe, might produce a dangerous precedent, it would be permitted to lie on the table for the preſent.

The petitioners above referred to, far from claiming, as Mr. Allen ſtated, "more than ordinary attention from the houſe," "they claim no other influence than that to which they are entitled in common with their fellow-citizens." It would be hard indeed, that becauſe men are elected to a legiſlative truſt in the State, they ſhould be deprived of their right of memorialiſing Congreſs. While Mr. Allen was ſpeaking

A meſſage was announced from the Preſident of the United States. It was in the following words:

"Gentlemen of the Senate, and
Gentlemen of the Houſe of Repreſentatives,

"In compliance with the requeſt of the Houſe of Repreſentatives, expreſſed in their reſolution of the 2d of this month, I tranſmit to both Houſes the inſtructions to and diſpatches from the Envoys Extraordinary of the United States to the French republic which were mentioned in my meſſage of the 19th March laſt, omitting only ſome names, and a few expreſſions deſcriptive of the perſons.

"I requeſted that they may be conſidered in confidence until the members of congreſs are fully poſſeſſed of their contents, and ſhall have had opportunity of conſidering them in the ſecret receſſes of the cabinet, before the diſcuſſion, publication, or animadverſion of the public ſhall take place. This meaſure will be neceſſary to the ſucceſs of any meaſures which may be taken by the Government, conſequent upon the intelligence communicated in the papers now tranſmitted.

"Whether meaſures ſhall be taken, and what meaſures, will depend upon the diſcuſſion, after which time I ſubmit them to your wiſdom.

JOHN ADAMS.

"United States, April 3, 1798."

The above meſſage having been read, the galleries and houſe were cleared of ſtrangers, and the Houſe was occupied in reading the papers accompanying it from this time (about half-paſt twelve) until paſt three, when they adjourned, without making any order reſpecting them.

HARTFORD, March 29.

On Saturday night laſt, a greater quantity of Rain fell on this, and the adjacent towns, than was known to fall, at one time, ſince the days of yore;—by which the waters, in the ſmall Rivers and Creek, were raiſed higher than they have been, ſince the memory of any perſon now living;—Two valuable Powder Mills, in Eaſt-Hartford, the property of Mr. Daniel Jones, of this City, were entirely ſwept off;—much damage was done to ſeveral other Mills on the ſame Stream:—The valuable Griſt and Saw Mils belonging to Mr. Holton, of Ellington was carried off and entirely deſtroyed, as was ſeveral other Mills, Dams, &c. in that place:—many large and coſtly bridges were carried off; and much damage done to the roads and fields—We are happy to learn that no lives have been loſt, by this flood, except Cattle, Horſes &c. ſeveral of which we learn were drowned, in ſome of the towns between this and New London.

BALTIMORE, MARCH 31.

Yeſterday arrived the ſhip Union, Cap. Porter, from Ramſegate (England) which he left February 5. Capt. P. was boarded by a French veſſel of war which took his newſpapers, ſtrictly examined his ſhip's papers, and broke open ſome of his packages to ſee if he had Engliſh goods on board, but finding none, permitted him to paſs. Captain Porter was originally from Hamburg, but put into Harwich, and then into Ramſegate, in diſtreſs. His verbal informaton is not very intereſting, as no event of conſequence had lately tranſpired. A petition from American merchants for convoy had been oppoſed by Mr Pitt, who argued that as our government was diſpoſed to monopoliſe the carrying trade to themſelves, and had laid an oppreſſive duty on Britiſh bottoms, the petition ought not to be granted; and a gentleman writes from London under date of February 1, that Britiſh veſſels would bring out the goods this ſeaſon and our own return empty.

IRREGULAR ODE TO MY COTTAGE.

Non ebur, neque aureum,
Mea renidet in domo lacunar.
Horace.

NEAR Wilmington my cottage ſtands,
A rural ſeat of pleaſant view,
Cheer'd with the ſight of riſing lands,
And flow'ry meads of purple hue.

No gilded arch beneath my roof,
No coſtly ornament is ſeen;
Of pomp my dwelling gives no proof,
I only court the golden mean.

But books are mine, rich mental joy,
Horace and Virgil grace my cot;
Poets whoſe muſes never cloy,
But reading whom all care's forgot.

For city joys I little care,
But ſafe remov'd from mirth and glee,
I only want, my heart to ſhare,
Some kind and lovely chere amie.

If health around my dwelling ſmile,
And calm contentment bleſs my lot,
I ſhall not wiſh the larger pile,
But own with pride my humble lot.

NO. XII.

ON THE IMPROVEMENT OF TIME.

Time is eternity,
Pregnant with all eternity can give;
Pregnant with all that makes archangels ſmile;
Who murders time, he cruſhes in the birth
A power ethereal, only not adore.
Young.

THE ſhortneſs of human life has been a ſubject of declamation in all ages of the world. It is a truth which even the moſt ſceptical have acknowledged. But however juſt the opinion may be, with reſpect to this, daily obſervation ſhows how little it is attended to. In the diſtribution of human life, we find, that a great proportion of it is ſpent in idleneſs or in frivolous purſuits. There is no trait in the character of man which ſo fully diſcovers his inconſiſtency, as a wanton abuſe of his time. The number of thoſe who properly improve this invaluable bleſſing, is comparatively ſmall. The gay and faſhionable world, inſenſible of its importance, waſte it in ſcenes of luxury and diſſipation. Each day renews the ſcenes which yeſterday engaged their attention, until by a repetition of them, they complain that their hours hang heavy upon them.

We are continually laying plans for our future conduct in life, inſenſible how ſwift the preſent hours are paſſing away. The preſent moments are too often neglected for the uncertain joys of to-morrow. In this manner we paſs through life until the hopes which had formerly ſupported us, give place to the moroſeneſs of old age. At this time the ſhortneſs of our lives ſtrike us moſt forcibly. The former part of our exiſtence appears like a viſionary dream, which for a while may afford us pleaſure and delight, but which quickly diſappears and leaves no traces behind.

TO FAIR PLAY.

YOU ſay, what is every body's buſineſs, is nobody's, then ſurely nobody has a right to interfere. I would aſk you Mr. Fair Play, in a fair manner, whether a perſon has not a right to do as he pleaſes with his own, let it be D. F. L. or A. B. C.? And if a perſon offers for the payment of his debts what goods are in his ſtore, they ought to be received and accepted as his all, no matter what purchaſes were made, and to what amount, were ſhipped nor when ſhipped, nor how many perſons were ruined by it, provided the value was returned into his ſtore, before that ſtore of goods was offered as payment: Now ſir, you know that of late, ſhips have often occaſion to crowd all ſail and proceed with great expedition, and it is poſſible property may be tranſported from New York to Hamburgh, and the value returned in quelques choſe in the courſe of two months, and if you ſhould chuſe to enquire at the banks they can tell you a great many thouſand dollars worth of paper were paid there in two months after a certain ſhipment, and none of it had been out on uſury; and if you ſhould chuſe to aſk any brokers, they will tell you no new notes were iſſued during that two mouths, and the money obtained from uſurers; nor was there any thing removed out of the ſtore, before the ſale, no, not a ſingle article of jewellery or box of watches. The greateſt economy alſo has been uſed in expences ſince that time, becauſe an oppoſite line of conduct would be waſting creditors money. No place has ever been obtained to prepare proviſions in, no, not even a whole houſe at a moderate rate: Now, ſir, you know an act from the ſtate legiſlature is expected, and then no enquiry will be made or queſtions asked about property, but all will be allowed to walk out of priſon, and at once enjoy the ſweets of liberty.

NOBODY.

FOR THE TIME PIECE.

Meſſrs. Printers,

I WISH ſome of your ingenious correſpondents would ſolve the following mathematical queſtion, and give a general rule for the ſolution of others ſimilar to it: If a body is ſet in motion, with any given velocity, and moves equally around the circumference of a circle; if another, at the ſame inſtant, ſhould move directly after it, changing its courſe as the former changes its ſituation, ſo as to form a curve within the circle, how many revolutions would the former make around the circumference before the latter would come in contact with it, provided the diameter of the circle was 20 feet, and each body being diametrically oppoſite to the other at the commencement of their motion.

NEW YORK, APRIL 6.

The proceedings of Congreſs, at the preſent moment, are important, and merit the ſerious attention of every friend to peace. We have reaſon to ſuppoſe there is yet ſufficient virtue in the Houſe of Repreſentatives, to declare that we are not in a ſituation to enter into a conteſt with the French republic; and that they will paſs a reſolution to prevent our merchants from arming; but after the Britiſh treaty we need expect little from the Senate; the probability, therefore, is, that they will not concur with the Houſe, and that the matter will remain entirely in the hands of the Preſident. If he can ſucceed in engaging our country in a war with France, he may poſſibly have an opportunity to compleat the checks and balances in our government, as they are ſtill, he ſays, imperfect, the Executive not having a power ſuperior to the legiſlature.

A gentleman of Philadelphia, has received a letter from a perſon of information and reſpectability, dated St. Auguſtine, March 9. It makes not the leaſt mention of the ſtory relative to the taking poſſeſſion of Florida by the French, which has been ſo prematurely, perhaps not without deſign, uſhered into the world, through the inſtrumentality of Mr. Rutledge's round-about correſpondents.

On Wedneſday, 28th inſt. the Houſe of Aſſembly of the State, by ballot, appointed the following gentlemen a committee to join a committee to be appointed by the Senate, to CANVASS the votes for Governor, &c. to be taken at the enſuing election:

INTERESTING TRAVELS

OF

JOHN LEDYARD,

WITH A SUMMARY OF HIS LIFE,

Are now in the hands of the Printer; and the following Propoſals are offered to the Public for Printing the ſame by Subſcription.

CONDITIONS.

I. It ſhall be printed on fine paper, with a new type, ornamented with a full length portrait of the Author, in the attitude of taking leave, on his departure for Africa.

II. It will be publiſhed in a large octavo form, handſomely bound and lettered—calculated to contain between four and five hundredpages; making an elegant library volume.

III. The price to ſubſcribers will be two dollars a volume; one half the money to be paid at the time of ſubſcribing and the remainder on delivery of the Work.

THE ſolicitude expreſſed by the public for this long expected Work; the character of the Author, and the celebrity of the travels, render unneceſſary, to moſt Americans, encomiums which are ordinarily uſed in recommending books to public patronage. To thoſe who have not heard of Mr. John Ledyard and his travels, the following character, extracted from a Work publiſhed by the London African Society, may not be amiſs:

"FORCIBLY impreſſed by the objects which he ſaw, and naturally led to compare them with thoſe which the other regions of the globe had preſented to his view, he deſcribes with the energy of an original obſerver, and exhibits in his narrative the varied effects of ſimilarity and contraſt.

—Having traverſed the world by water, in his great attempt to do the ſame by land he had nearly penetrated to the Pacific ocean, when he was ſeized upon, and baniſhed from her territories by the empreſs of Ruſſia —

"On his arrival in England, Sir Joſeph Banks told him, knowing his diſpoſition, that he believed he could recommend him to an adventure almoſt as perilous as the one from which he had returned; and then communicated to him the wiſhes of the aſſociation for diſcovering the inland countries of Africa.

"Ledyard replied, that he had always determined to traverſe the continent of Africa as ſoon as he had explored the interior of North America; and as Sir Joſeph had offered him a letter of introduction, he came directly to the writer of theſe memoirs. I ſpread the map of Africa before him, and tracing a line from Cairo to Sennar, and from thence weſtward, in the latitude and ſuppoſed direction of the Niger, I told him that was the route by which it was deſired that Africa might, if poſſible, be explored. I aſked him when he would ſet out—"To-morrow morning," was his anſwer: But before I had learned from the note the name and buſineſs of my viſitor, I was ſtruck with the manlineſs of his perſon, the breadth of his cheſt, the openneſs of his countenance, and the inquietude of his eye.

"His perſon was remarkably expreſſive of activity and ſtrength; his manners, though unpoliſhed, were neither uncivil or unpleaſing: Little attentive to difference of rank, he ſeemed to conſider all men as his equals, and as ſuch he reſpected them: His genius, though irregular, was original and comprehenſive;—ardent in his wiſhes, yet calm in his deliberations; daring in his purpoſes, but guarded in his meaſures; impatient of controul, yet capable of ſtrong endurance; adventrous beyond the conception of ordinary men, yet wary, and conſiderate, and attentive to all precautions; he appeared to be formed by nature for atchievements of hardihood and peril.

Selected Poetry.

JACK & THE DEACON.

TWO ſons of Neptune, Jack and Will,
One Sunday's morn were walking,
On various ſubjects, this and that,
With much ſang froid were talking.

Perchance as near a houſe of prayer
They fearleſs urg'd their careleſs way,
The deacon of the church they met;
In robes bedizen'd for the day.

He bow'd, and thus the tars addreſs'd,
Good ſirs, why paſs ye thus the time;
Surely you'd better walk with me;
Sport on this day is no ſmall crime."

With all my heart, each tar reply'd,
And boldly with the man they ventur'd;
Who kindly led them to the houſe:
When on his courſe the parſon enter'd.

With prayer the ſolemn work begins,
A ſong of Zion next ſucceeds;
And here the deacon, riſing ſlow,
Gravely proclaims the pſalm, and reads—

"With hyſſop purge thy ſervant, Lord!"
Then tun'd aloud his vocal noſe;
But, luckleſs man, behold! a tune,
That ſuited ill his verſe he choſe:

Thrice he eſſay'd to ſound the line;
And thrice he hem'd to change his tone;
But vain, alas! prov'd each attempt;
The man now wiſh'd himſelf alone.

Jack, mov'd to pity, ſaw his friend's diſtreſs,
Nor could he long his ſummon'd feelings curb,
But riſing from his ſeat he loudly cry'd,
Deacon! for God's ſake try ſome other herb.

A YOUNG prieſt, of greater pertneſs than wit, being aſked in company how he came to take it in his head to enter into the the miniſtry? Said he, "The Lord had need of me." "That may be," replied a gentleman preſent, "for I have read that the Lord had once need of an aſs."

For Publication by Subſcription,
A celebrated and much admired New Novel,
ENTITLED,
THE CHILDREN OF THE ABBEY.
A Tale, in Four Volumes.
BY REGINA MARIA ROCHE,
Author of the Maid of the Hamlet, and Vicar of Lanſdown.

"A matchleſs pair,
"With equal virtue form'd and equal grace,
"The ſame, diſtinguiſh'd by their ſex alone;
"Her's the mild luſtre of the blooming morn,
"And his the radiance of the ſun."

THOMSON.

THIS Novel came out in London laſt year, 1797; we hear of but one copy's having been imported into this city. The avidity with which this has been called for at Mr. Caritat's Circulating Library, and the univerſal encomiums made upon it by ladies and gentlemen of taſte who have peruſed it, induces us to iſſue propoſals for its republication.

Among the many Works of this kind that have lately appeared, none are more worthy of general approbation than this. The narrative is natural and intereſting; the language eaſy, correct, and, in many inſtances, elegant, and the ſentiments throughout well calculated of ſupporting the mind under misfortune and calumny, however ſevere, and that virtue will at laſt be amply rewarded.

The London edition ſold for a dollar and a quarter a volume; we (provided this propoſal meets with ſufficient patronage) will print it equally well, two volumes in one, at a dollar a volume ſtitched, or a dollar and a quarter handſomely bound, making two dollars and a half for the ſet, half the price of the London edition. Each volume to be paid for on delivery.

CLEAN LINEN AND COTTON RAGS BOUGHT AT THIS OFFICE.

3. IT will be put to preſs as ſoon as a ſufficient number of ſubſcribers are obtained to defray the expences of printing.

TO thoſe who have read the works of Mrs. FAUGERES, annexed to the writings of her mother Mrs. BLEECKER, not long ſince publiſhed, no recommendation is neceſſary: Thoſe who admire, and wish to encourage original and correct American genius, may expect ample gratification from the peruſal of this collection.

The contents of this volume, as well as of the former, being miſcellaneous and entirely unconnected, it may be bound as a ſeparate book, or as a ſecond volume of the works of Mrs. Bleecker and Mrs. Faugeres. [The Publiſher.

AT H. CARITAT'S
CIRCULATING LIBRARY,
Pearl ſtreet, No. 93,

WILL be ſold this day, at one ſhilling a piece, the new Catalogue of his Library, containing beyond 1200 numbers, which form about 4000 vols. and fill up 64 pages, on account of its accuracy reſpecting either the titles, nature, merit or form of the works, as well as the names of their authors. In order to underſtand the full improvement of the whole, H. Caritat begs of his friends to conſider that of the books contained in the catalogue of the Library he formerly bought, the greateſt part he either never had, or that they were imperfect, or worn out. It is therefore by every exertion in his power, that he availed himſelf of the means this place could afford to form a good collection, having expunged of the old one with the great ſeverity what could give no ſatisfaction to his ſubſcribers. He has likewiſe already provided himſelf with a ſufficient number of duplicates, ſo that at the enſuing ſeaſon the ſuſcribers in town may not ſuffer from thoſe in the country, which laſt he will endeavour to accomodate in the moſt eaſy terms; and as now for a further rapqid and ſteady improvement, he cannot entirely depend on the occaſional importation of books in this city H. Caritat from this period will have a direct correſpondence with London in order firſt to get what he could not find here, and to have for the future regularly and ſpeedily forward to him every thing new that may ſuit his cuſtomers.
